Frequently Asked Questions

What is the best time to witness the Great Migration?

The Great Migration is a year-round event, but the best time to witness river crossings is during the dry season. This is when the herds move across the Mara River, creating dramatic wildlife spectacles.

What should I pack for the safari?

Pack light, breathable clothing, a hat, sunglasses, and sunscreen. Binoculars and a good camera are essential for wildlife viewing. Comfortable walking shoes are recommended for guided walks.

Are vaccinations required for this trip?

Consult your healthcare provider for the latest recommendations on vaccinations and health precautions. It's important to ensure your travel health is up to date before embarking on the safari.

Is the safari suitable for children?

Yes, this safari is suitable for children and offers an enriching experience for families. Our guides are experienced in accommodating young travelers and ensuring their safety and enjoyment.

Will I have internet access during the safari?

Some lodges and camps offer Wi-Fi, but connectivity may be limited in remote areas. We encourage guests to embrace the opportunity to disconnect and fully immerse in the natural surroundings.

What are the accommodations like on this safari?

Accommodations range from mid-range to luxury, depending on your preference. All options provide comfort and are situated in prime locations for wildlife viewing.

Are there any cultural experiences included?

Yes, cultural visits to local tribes are included in the itinerary. These experiences offer insight into the traditional lifestyles and customs of the Maasai and other communities.

Is travel insurance necessary?

Travel insurance is highly recommended to cover any unforeseen events or emergencies. It provides peace of mind and ensures assistance in case of medical or travel-related issues.
